

Grasshopper

Grasshopper nymph damage to broccoli leaves

Grasshoppers-

Control: Where migration of grasshoppers frequently occurs is to keep an attractive green border of tall grass or lush green plants around the garden's perimeter to trap insects and divert them from vegetables or flowers. Don't mow this trap crop or let it dry out; you will send the grasshoppers straight into the garden.

An effective organic control is to use Semaspore bait. It works by making the grasshopper sick, they then eat less and eventually die out.

You can try to catch and remove them by hand, but that is generally difficult.